FOREWORD

It is the little things of the day that may blossom forth into ideas, ideals, and actualities of life. As we sang the spiritual, "We're Climbing Jacob's Ladder", we realized that school is a process of CLIMBING higher, higher as we develop our personalities, interests, and our capabilities.

Parent is a six letter word. There are ten thousand endearing terms in the dictionary which we could use in describing our parents. Yet we know that any and all of these terms would fall far short of expressing the depths of our devotion and gratitude. Thusly, let us try in this meager way to portray these tender feelings. Therefore to you, the touchstone of our existence; the guiding stars of our environment; to you, our beloved parents; we do dedicate this edition of the Whispering Pines.

PRINCESS AND PRINCE

It was a year which saw many of us at Edneyville going on a "Sentimental Journey" to Romance but not always tripping a light fantastic toe over flowery paths of ease because we knew "in the spring man's fancy turns to love" (of another too often); that wolves do stalk; "Autumn Leaves" do fall; there are always flocks of fair maidens in a row; herds of stags in the assembly line.....

Who's that yonder having fun?
Must be the kids on the run.

Look what they did to me!

Little work will be done today.

How did I do this?

Look Ma, no feet!

Cheese cake, wow!

FUNITIVITY

Fun galore! That's "The Answer to a Teenage Prayer", so Edneyville does "Rock Around the Clock" with discussions of "My Boy Flattop", "Dungaree Dolls", and "Mistletoe Kiss". "Sixteen Tons" of plays, programs, games, projects, and parties keep hot-rod "Maybelline" on the go. Mother, "Are You Sa-a-atisfied" if "I'll Be Home" before "It's Almost Tomorrow?"

Senior Challenge

And here is the challenge of the Class of '56. As we emerge from the peaceful, orderly, concrete circles and familiar patterns of childhood, adolesence, and young adulthood, to advance into the ceaseless tide of life with its many demands, we realize partially the great responsibility that is so suddenly thrust upon us. We, in our school life, have climbed many steep mountains and have surmounted many obstacles, yet we realize that the hardest tests lie yet before us. May the strength and force of our characters, the substantiation of our ideals, and the endurance of our faith in God and man carry us in an unswerving tide to the heights of our desires.
